THE ELLISON
SALE

This is not merely an announcement that has no significance; neither is it intended to be conducted along the worn out lines that characterize the average sale.

If you are interested, read along and understand the conditions which govern this unusual occurrence. Weather conditions, as you know, have been exceedingly unfavorable to the selling of certain lines of merchandise--our Summer is late in coming and the time is almost ripe to have our Fall stock under way.

We Would Prefer to Sell at a Sacrifice Rather Than To Carry Goods Through to Fall

Therefore, it becomes necessary to dispose of the present stock, and this can only be accomplished by a positive, true and genuine reduction in prices.

Let's see how we can assure a cutting of price, for this is one of the promises our house is going to keep.

Everything in Ellison's Store is Plainly Marked.

Every article is marked in plain figures. Not a ticket will be disturbed, not a figure changed upon the original ticket, except a plain figure noting clearly the reduction made upon the article, besides our guarantee, and our assurance is behind every transaction which might be undertaken.

This Is Not An Ordinary Sale!

And it will be wise to come and visit our store as once--go through--wait upon yourself, if you like, and assure yourself of the splendid reductions made throughout the stock. Our system of plain figures will quickly determine that goods are cut regardless of cost.

With This Positive, Sure and Certain Assurance

—on our part, it will be worth your while to see the tempting, beautiful and cheap array of merchandise which will go quickly, giving the public the benefit of such savings as we clearly demonstrate.

The goods offered in this sale are not shop-worn, damaged or unattractive, but they have style, character and quality, and every feature to make them desirable.

Talk it over among yourselves; then come together Saturday morning and assure yourselves of the genuineness of our promise.

You Aren't Going to Have an Opportunity Like This Again During The Year.

These prices obtain for Three Days Only--our object being to quickly reduce stock.

THE A. S. OF E. COLUMN

—BY MR. J. H. SAUNDERS—

Last week we told you of the efforts of one of our members, to get an elevator for next year's wheat crop. Would it not be an excellent idea, for each local union to make a special effort to get all its members together at the next regular meeting, make elevators the main subject to talk about and elect at least one elevator to committee, just as soon as possible?

We need one on the M. & O. and one on the N. C. & St. L. Rys. I am confident, that we can save enough money to build both these elevators in one year. But in the meantime, what shall we do with this year's crop? There has been a great deal of discussion, about the comparative merits of storing wheat in granaries and mercantile elevators. But I think this year's experience has been clearly in favor of elevators. When wheat reached one dollar, we were all ready to sell. But the season was so late that few could spare teams and hands to haul their wheat to market. Those who had their wheat in the elevators had no hauling to do, but sold at a profit of 13 to 15 cts. per bushel after paying all expenses for insurance and storage.

Wheat in elevators had sustained no loss from shrinkage, or waste and was really in better condition than when stored. Wheat which was worth 72 cts. at threshing time sold at 90 to 93 cts., netting 85 cts. This was a clean profit of 13 cts. or 18 per cent on the investment. I know that there is a claim that wheat in mercantile elevators is a part of the visible supply, and this may be true, but if it does become a part of this visible supply, it still belongs to the farmer, and he has it stored just where he can sell at a moment's warning whenever the price suits. But suppose his wheat is at home in the garner. He has all the trouble with rats, mice, wastage, leakage, mold, weevil and etc., and his wheat is still to haul off when the price comes.

Then perhaps the roads are bad, or the teams and hands all busy, or the cars short or something else in the way so that the price tumbles before we can get our wheat to market. True, we aim some day to make the price uniform, but that will be when we are thoroughly organized.

But the question is, what shall we do until we are organized? If we can erect or rent good elevators, by all means, let us do so. But if we cannot secure our own, let us store in the mercantile elevators until we can secure our own. In the Revolutionary war, we were not strong enough to gain our independence, but we secured the co-operation of Spain, Holland and France, and by their aid we gained our freedom.

By the time of 1812, we were able to defend ourselves against Great Britain, and she has never cared to try to whip us since. If farmers can clear 18 cents by holding wheat in mercantile elevators, we shall soon be able to erect our own. True, we may not be able to do this every year, but if we can make only six per cent, it will be no bad investment.

I know some young men will claim that they can make more than 18 per cent by trading in horses, cattle, sheep or hogs, therefore they will dump their wheat on the market in order to get money to trade on. In fact, some have already sold their crop of wheat at 90 cts. and expect to make up by trading what they lose in price. But this trading is really much more uncertain than holding farm products for better prices.

They may make 18 per cent, or they may lose 20 per cent. Besides, every bushel of wheat dumped on the market injures not only the dumper but all other farmers, while every bushel held off the market, aids not only the holder, but every farmer in the country. Besides all this, if we will erect or rent our own elevators the A. S. of E. will advance money on elevator receipts for produce deposited.

Already many tobacco growers are receiving more in advance on their tobacco than they could sell the whole crop for before the tobacco growers organized. The same will be true of wheat when we build our own elevators and pledge 50 to 75 per cent of the crop.

Since writing the above, I learn that some of my neighbors have sold their new crop of wheat for one dollar. Up-to-date says, “The popular question now asked us is, ‘What price will the A. S. of E. set on the 1907 wheat crop?’ We suppose this query is inspired by an inclination on the part of some, who have 1906 wheat, to hold for a higher price and by others to know whether it is worth while to pledge their crop.

We always answer that it is uncertain. The Society does not indulge in speculative price-making. When we measure or calculate the 1907 crop, it will be time enough to decide the price. It is clear, however, that the crop will be shorter than last year, hence the price will be over $1.00.

But we do advise these having 1906 wheat to sell it on the basis of a dollar and we also advise every grower to pledge his crop. Only through sufficient pledging can the price be compelled from harvest to harvest, for the first of the crop as well as the last. Every crop, except cattle, is now selling at or above the minimum prices set last October at the annual meeting. (See the table) Think of the victory. Spread the news all over the land and to all the farmers, and tell them that only two important crops failed to sell to the prices since the new system of marketing was taught.

Tell them these things so they will be business men and quit dumping at last.” So you see that Pres. Everett still teaches what he has always taught. Do not hold for high or speculative prices, but only for fair prices. Last year the farmers met and said $1.00 was a fair price. When they meet again they will decide a fair price for 1907.

An Interesting Relic.

An object of historic interest on the barbecue ground at Lexington during the recent Tobacco Grower's Rally was the big seven hundred gallon iron kettle in which part of the burgoo was cooked. This kettle was cast at Pittsburgh in 1805 for Neil McCoy, grandfather of Judge James H. Mulligan, who had a powder mill west of North Broadway, where the ball park now is, says a Lexington exchange. Mr. McCoy manufactured there powder for the early settlers of Kentucky and the West. In this kettle was made a large part of the powder used by General Andrew Jackson at the battle of New Orleans, January 15, 1815. This powder was shipped down the Kentucky, Ohio and Mississippi to Jackson's army. The cannon balls which this powder hurled into the ranks of Pakenham's veterans, who came fresh from the Peninsular campaign to meet defeat at the hands of the untrained Western riflemen, were cast at iron works in Bath county and floated down the Licking, Ohio and Mississippi to New Orleans. This old kettle was loaned by Judge Mulligan to Gus Jaubert about fifteen years ago, and in it he has prepared the toothsome burgoo for barbecues in a number of States, among them Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Michigan, Tennessee, Nebraska, Mississippi and others. —Shelby Sentinel.

Wheat harvest is about over.

The Hickman Ky., Courier, one of the most up-to-date newspapers that comes to our exchange table, rounded out its forty-first year of usefulness as a disseminator of news last week and the editors and the people of Hickman can look back with pride and satisfaction to the splendid service rendered by the paper during these forty-one years. Its editors are young men with "newspaper snap," as it is termed and know how to get up a news publication, deficient in nothing that tends to the upbuilding of the community in which it is published.—East Prairie Eagle.

Practically all the farmers are now cutting wheat. On account of the bad weather earlier in the season it was thought that the wheat crop would be a complete failure, that 50 per cent of a crop would be even surprising. The incessant rains were very damaging, and it is true the outlook was discouraging, but we are glad to say in behalf of our many farmer friends, that the scare came too soon, and that the yield will be much better than was at first expected. While the yield will not be a large one, it is said that the grain seems to be heavy, and is maturing nicely. The harvest was a week late, but practically all the farmers began cutting the first of the week. It is thought that the threshing season will open about July fourth. It is the earnest wish of the Courier that even the present prospect will be smaller than the real yield.

Hickman Wins in Telephone Injunction Case.

The Hickman citizens won a victory in the Court of Appeals Saturday, in an opinion handed down by Judge Barker. As will be remembered, the injunction asked for by the plaintiffs in the case to enjoin the telephone company from removing their exchange from Hickman and to enjoin them from refusing to give the patrons service, was granted in the Fulton Circuit Court by Judge Bugg at the last term of court, and an appeal taken by the defendant to the Hickman Circuit Court where the evidence was reviewed and the injunction sustained by Judge Bugg, sitting in that court.

The following is a clause in the opinion as given by Judge Bugg: "The cause was then submitted and the judge being advised, sustaining the motion of the plaintiffs for a temporary injunction, both adjudge that the motion for a temporary injunction is sustained and the defendant be, and is hereby, enjoined from removing from the city of Hickman its telephone exchange and from removing from the said city any of its telephone apparatus, and from refusing to operate same in said city as it has heretofore done and enjoined from charging for the operation of its said phone in said city, exceeding $1.50 for residence phones and $1.50 for business houses and offices and $3.50 where one party takes both of said phones; it is further enjoined from refusing to permit the patrons of its telephone system in Hickman, Ky., the free use and without tax or charge for communication over its wires to patrons of the telephone exchanges in Hickman, Ky., to Union City, Tenn., Fulton, Ky., Mayfield, Ky., and Paducah, Ky., but upon condition that the plaintiffs execute bond as required by law, to defendant in the sum of $1500. Whereupon plaintiffs executed bond conditioned as the law requires in said sum of $1500, and this order is ordered to take effect from and after this date. R. J. BROWN, Judge."

TO MY FRIENDS:

I take this means of informing my customers and friends that my lively stable is now in the new Barry building—next door to Barry's harness shop—instead of West Hickman. I am in a position to serve you better than heretofore, as I have better facilities and centrally located. Prices the lowest and service the best. Yours truly, ant in the sum of $1500. Whereupon plaintiffs executed bond conditioned as the law requires in said sum of $1500, and this order is ordered to take effect from and after this date. R. J. BROWN, Judge."

E. F. DAVIS.

An appeal was taken to the Kentucky Court of Appeals and a hearing had last Saturday, at which time the Court sustained the lower court. Judge Barker was sitting when this opinion was handed down, and the following is the opinion:

This case comes before me as Judge of the Court of Appeals of Kentucky, on motion of defendant to dissolve a temporary order of injunction granted by the trial Judge, requiring it to continue to operate its telephone franchise in the City of Hickman, Ky. Deeming the question of sufficient importance to justify my presenting it to the whole court, I did so. The members, after hearing the case stated, were unanimously of the opinion that justice will be better subserved by overruling motion to dissolve and allowing the case to come here on regular appeal after final adjudication, if that should be necessary and considered expedient. They are of the opinion that the defendant will be fully protected by the injunction bond from loss by reason of operating the franchise. For this reason the motion to dissolve the order of injunction, made before me on the 6th day of June, 1907, is overruled.

H. S. BARBER,
Judge Ky. Court of Appeals.

Swayne's Improvements.

Swayne's Drug Store has just been newly papered and workmen are now engaged on the inside painting and enameling it. Mr. Swayne has had the shelving and fixtures remodeled and painted and the show cases are being enamelled. It is surprising to note the improvement that has been made in the appearance of the interior of this popular store. Mr. Swayne tells us that he has just completed his twentieth year in the drug business in Hickman, having graduated from the pharmaceutical department of Vanderbilt University in Nashville, in the Spring of 1887, and entered upon his business career in Hickman two weeks later. He takes a pride in his store, its reputation has made for square dealing, takes special pains in the compounding of prescriptions and in fact says that his line of work is his "hobby." His stock is now more complete than at any time in the history of the business, and having employed W. E. Scates, a well known druggist of 28 years experience, a man who takes unusual care in compounding prescriptions, he is better prepared than ever before to take care of patronage.

Mr. Swayne said to the Courier that he wished to thank the generous public for its past patronage, and earnestly solicit the continuance of same in the future. It is useless to say that his patrons will receive the utmost courtesy and fair treatment in return for patronage given him. Dr. Swayne's store is opened about three hours in the morning and three hours in the afternoon.

Innocent amusement transforms tears into rainbows.

The man who is always telling about his good character should be careful to always have it with him.

Little arms encircling the neck will make the heart light over which no diamonds sparkle. All the grand pictures and splendid works of art one can possess will never adorn a room as do the smiling faces of those dearest to us.
The things that may be bought are pleasant to have, nor is wealth to be despised; but never pity the poor man who has the wealth that gold cannot buy, nor the woman who's jewels are those of which Cornelia was so proud—good and obedient sons.

Heaven gave every man time for some useful purpose, and a person's life must have been sadly spent if there are no green spots in the wilderness of the past, to which he can turn back with consolation and pleasure. How many live in the world as useless as if they had never passed through life, as a mere cipher, and leaving the world without performing a single act of kindness to a fellow creature, or leaving a single trace by which their memories may be perpetuated to posterity, either for their usefulness, their virtue or their charities.

We are greasing the wheels of life when we speak kindly to the poor beggar in the street, or to the blind man who is waiting for a friendly hand to help him across the road. We are greasing the wheels of life when we perform any kindly action, when we bring a ray of sunshine into any home, and help to give pleasure and hope to any of those who are sad and distressed.
How various are the ways of greasing the wheels of life; when we make the best of what we have, and look forward with pleasure and hope to the future, then we help to make life go smoothly.

LET CHILDREN PLAY.

From the nursery to the narrow house is but a brief journey, and in that brief space between the two termini the pleasantest domain ought to be that of childhood. Children alone, of human beings, have the capacity of unadulterated enjoyment.
Their childhood, therefore, should be the holiday of life; its slave-day will soon be upon them, and then farewell forever to the merry world, without a responsibility, a fear or a care, which is their rightful abiding-place until borne into the tumult and the strife of the great world.
Tasks they must learn, duties they must be taught but those who know how to interest the developing mind and to feed it wisely with the elements of knowledge, can make education one of childhood's pleasures.

Appreciation makes stupid people brighter, homes one more comely, the clumsy less clumsy, the diffident self-possessed. It need not be given in words; tones are often sufficient, even glances or gestures will convey ample meaning to sensitive souls.
Try a few words of genuine approval upon the most stupid person of your acquaintance and note the effect, it will surprise you; try it on a woman who knows she is plain and unattractive, and mark how her eyes will brighten, her cheeks flush and her face light up with something akin to beauty. Try it on a man who lays out your walks or hoes your corn, and see what consciousness will be awakened in him. There is that in all of us that responds quickly to the voice of encouragement and longs for it.
The man dead to this is dead to every noble aspiration.

pressions, and the after feelings of the world are more or less light in comparison. Even in our old age we look back to that feeling as one of the sweetest we have through life. Our passions and our wilful-ness may lead us far from the object of our filial love; we learn even to pain her heart, to oppose her wishes, to violate her commands; we may become wild, headstrong and angry at her counsels and opposition; but when death has stilled her monitory voice, and still memory remains to recapitulate her virtues and good deeds, affection, like a flower, beaten to the ground by the past storm, raises her head and smiles among her tears. Round that idea, as we have said, the mind clings with fond affection; and even when the early period of our loss forces memory to be silent, fancy takes the place of remembrance and twines the image of our dead parent with a garland of graces and beauties and virtues which we doubt not she possessed.

A RECIPE FOR HAPPINESS.

It is simply when you rise in the morning to form the resolution to make the day a happy one to a fellow-creature. It is easily done: a left-off garment to the man that needs it; a kind word to the sorrowful; an encouraging expression to the striving, trifles in themselves as bright as air, will do it, at least for twenty-four hours; and if young, depend upon it that it will tell when you are old, rest assured that it will send you gently and happily down the stream of time to eternity. Look at the result. You send one person —only one—happily through the day; that is three hundred and thirty-five in the course of the year; and suppose you live forty years only after you commence this course, and you have made 14,600 human beings happy, at least for a time.
Now, worthy reader, is not this simple? We do not often indulge in a moral dose, but this is so small a pill that no one needs curiously to disguise its flavor, and it requires to be taken but once a day, that we feel warranted in prescribing it. It is most excellent for digestion, and a promoter of pleasant slumber.

Bill Nye's Long Wait.

Bill Nye when a young man, once made an engagement with a lady friend of his to take her driving on a Sunday afternoon. The appointed day came, but at the livery stable all the horses were taken out save one old, shaky, exceedingly bony horse.

Mr. Nye hired the nag and drove to his friend's residence. The lady let him wait nearly an hour before she was ready, and then on viewing the disreputable outfit finally refused to accompany Mr. Nye.

"Why," she exclaimed, sneeringly,
"that horse may die of age any moment."

"Madame," Mr. Nye replied,
"when I arrived that horse was a prancing young steed."

SUPPLEMENT TO

The Hickman Courier

Hickman, Ky., Friday, June 21, 1907.

Dorena.

J. H. Pickett was here from Hickman Sunday.
Clarence White went to Croson Sunday afternoon.

Health is not the very best in the neighborhood at this writing.

Mr. Larue has moved his levee camp to the W. C. Johnson farm.

A number of young people were the guests of Miss Carmen Crawford Sunday evening.

Mrs. McDade and children of, last, Prairie are visiting her mother, Mrs. Sarah Hall.

Messrs. Lawrence and McPheters, of Belmont, visited Mrs. King one evening last week.

Sidney Stockings returned home Sunday from Charleston, where he has been attending school.

Rev. J. L. Lucas, of Hickman, preached a very interesting sermon to the people of this place Sunday.

Mrs. Lola Pickett, of Cairo, has been visiting relatives in this neighborhood. She returned home Tuesday.

W. C. Bryant and wife were the guests of Mrs. Polhamus last week. They returned to their home in East France Friday.

As three items have been absent in several weeks, we will again try to get some in. Since the people have been so busy working there is not much news of any importance, but the farmers now are in better spirits, the crops are looking promising and the heavy rains have ceased.

Mr. Hicks, the noted weather forecaster of St. Louis, last week discovered a new spot on the sun, a much larger one than has ever before been seen. He says it covers about the eighth part of the sun, although it appears much smaller than that, to look at it with the naked eye. He says it will pass from the sun tomorrow, but will come back again in about twelve days, and that the weather in the United States will be very much affected by its presence. Many Hickmanites have been looking at the spot by means of a smoking glass.

Gov. Beckham appointed the outside members of the Common Council at Princeton to fill the positions made vacant by the decision of the Court of Appeals holding that the incumbents were not legally elected to the offices they are filling. One member declined reappointment.

Mrs. Miranda Wilson, of this city, looking herself in a room at her home, Miss Esie Jackson, the reigning belle of Caldwell county, and a social favorite through Western Kentucky, committed suicide by drinking carbolic acid. She left no word of explanation. Miss Jackson was a woman of exceptional beauty and an accomplished horsewoman.

With the death of James Madison Morris, aged 75, another old land mark passes away. Mr. Morris was born in Eastville, Tenn. At the age of five he, with his parents moved to Obion county, Tenn. The Morris farm, located five miles from the little village of Fulton, was the finest in this section and on it Mr. Morris and his eight sisters and brothers grew up into vigorous manhood and womanhood. In 1857 Mr. Morris was married to Miss Mary Ligon, one of the belles of the county. The union was blessed with three children, two of whom, N. B. Morris and Mrs. Samuel McCall, are living.
